There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning wash, if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and itching of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustreous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Adv.

Black Dinner Gowns From Paris

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—An unusual line and an original drape make the black satin Mary Walls dinner gown a thing of beauty and a joy forever. That is, almost forever—until styles change again.
The effect formed by the loose, straight piece of satin, with the broad, low-hanging drape which passes clear around the skirt and falls long on the side, is unique.

On the right, a rich and gorgeous Parisian gown of extremely simple lines. It is of black chiffon velvet, embroidered in cut steel.
The gown is straight-lined, the richness of the embroidery being the only ornamentation, with the exception of a drape of the velvet on one side.

MISS PARKERSON NOW
BRIDE OF L. M. CANNON

ELON COLLEGE, Oct. 15.—Announcements reached the college on Monday that L. M. Cannon, of the business department, and Miss Helen Parkerson, of Norfolk, Va., had been quietly married in Greensboro on September 12, as Miss Parkerson was on her way to fill an engagement as reader in the city of Atlanta. The marriage was known only to their most intimate friends and the announcements received here were genuine surprises to their many friends.

Mrs. Cannon had other engagements as reader following her Atlanta engagement, the last of which was concluded in Norfolk on September 11. There she was joined by Mr. Cannon and last evening, just one month from the date they were married in Greensboro, they reached the college, where they will be at home to their friends. Mrs. Cannon studied two years in Elon College, receiving her certificate in expression, and then went to King's School of Oratory, at Pittsburgh, where she was graduated in June of this year. She has since been engaged in private teaching and reading on public occasions.

Wearing of Man's Attire by Women
Not Contrary to Law, Says Attorney-General

[By Associated Press.]
SEATTLE, WASH., Oct. 15.—While the wearing by women of masculine shirts and trousers "may, perhaps, be subject to some criticism from an artistic or aesthetic standpoint, it cannot be said that it is prohibited by the law," Attorney-General L. L. Thompson has advised W. H. Hillyer, town marshal of Zillah, Wash.
Marshal Hillyer consulted every authority in his pursuit of means to curb the wearing of men's attire by women in his town. Secretary of State J. Grant Hinkle, to whom the question was first put, passed the problem up to E. L. French, Director of Agriculture, on the ground that the women wearing men's clothing were engaged in agricultural work. Mr. French was unable to offer a solution and the matter passed on to Mr. Thompson.
